ENVIRONMENTS + EXHIBITIONS

The Jackson Home, now over 100 years old, stands as one of several important landmarks that highlight Selma, Alabama's role in the Civil Rights Movement.

Dr. Sullivan Jackson and Mrs. Richie Jean Sherrod welcomed their close friend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his allies into their home as a place to rest and strategize. From this home's living room, key moments of the Civil Rights Movement were organized, including the Selma to Montgomery Marches and the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

In 2023, The Henry Ford acquired the Jackson Home from owner Jawana Jackson, who asked them to relocate and preserve this historic house, giving it a permanent spot in Greenfield Village.

Working closely with the Henry Ford exhibitions team, Bluewater Studio is producing and installing an exhibit that begins in a newly constructed annex space and continues throughout the house itself.

Together, these spaces will tell the story of the Jackson family, the Selma Voting Rights Movement, and the broader fight for civil rights.

The Jackson Home and exhibit is scheduled to open to the public in spring 2026.
